

My thesis: By creating this “manual” of love, a manual that is, in reality, a multivocal “sic et non” treatment of the social and religious institutions of the day, Andreas invites us, as readers, to interrogate the social and religious authorities that construct society by seeing the “natural” as a rhetorical device and all authoritative voices as inherently (self-) contradictory.